

Announcing LibSource

LAC Group's Business Division that delivers Library as a Service[®] to Law Firms and other Organizations

Los Angeles, CA, April 11, 2016. LibSource is the new name for the business unit that will market LAC Group's core Library as a Service[®] platform and suite of services. LAC Group is a multinational conglomerate of several businesses involved in a variety of knowledge and information services for large enterprises.

LibSource conveys the concept of the modern library as a comprehensive resource for increasingly digital and diverse multimedia assets and other information. LibSource also recognizes the reference librarian as a key part of the solution, with the specialized expertise to help organizations find and manage the information they need to excel in today's knowledge-driven economy.

"We believe that LibSource is the right name for the business that will market and grow our Library as a Service brand globally," says Chief Operating Officer Rob Corrao. "LibSource encapsulates our virtual model, which delivers research and other reference services on-demand through our web-based Knowledge Services Portal, as well as our managed service model for organizations that want to keep their library or information center onsite and intact."

LAC Group was founded in 1986 as Library Associates, a boutique librarian staffing agency for law firms. Today, LAC Group encompasses five businesses whose clients include major law firms, Fortune 500 corporations, federal government departments and agencies, media and entertainment concerns and universities.

ABOUT LIBSOURCE

LibSource delivers flexible and cost-effective Library as a Service[®] solutions for research, business intelligence and other information center needs. Enterprise clients have the option to deploy full or hybrid managed services to maintain the presence of their physical library without the administrative burden, as well as taking advantage of virtual, cloud-based service with subscription options that meet any needs. Whether temporary projects or long-term relationships, LibSource employs researchers, competitive intelligence experts and other library professionals with specialized training and experience to help organizations excel in today's knowledge-driven economy.
